

SPC0001

SPC

A Registered Investment Advisor

FORM ADV PART 2A BROCHURE

300 Parkland Plaza, Ann Arbor, MI 48103

(734) 663-1611

spcinfo@bdops.com
www.spc4clients.com
11.1.2017

This brochure provides information about the qualifications and business practices of SPC. If you have any questions about the contents of this brochure, please contact us at 734-663-1611. The information in this brochure has not been approved or verified by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission or by any state securities authority.

Additional information about SPC is also available on the SEC's website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov. The searchable IARD/CRD number for SPC is 110692.

SPC is a registered investment adviser. Registration with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission or any state securities authority does not imply a certain level of skill or training.

Please note that SPC has revised the Advisory Business section of this Brochure to disclose that SPC now offers Direct-at-Fund programs to clients. For more information, please see page 5 of this Brochure.

Material Changes

Annual Update

This section highlights material changes made to this brochure since its last update in March 2016.

SPC is required to provide you with an annual notice containing a summary of any updates made to this brochure and instructions on how to obtain an updated copy of this brochure in its entirety. In addition, SPC may offer you additional updates throughout the year as important material changes occur.

The items below are material changes made to this brochure since the last update:

- The “Advisory Business” section was updated to provide an example of how SPC’s advisory fee is calculated.
- The “Advisory Business” section was updated to disclose that SPC’s solicitor compensation arrangements with third-party investment advisers may change as a result of recent fiduciary regulations and prohibited transaction exemptions issued by the U.S. Department of Labor.
- The “Advisory Business” section was updated to disclose that SPC offers ongoing financial consulting services to clients who are interested in receiving continuous assistance (i.e., ongoing and as-needed financial consultations) with achieving their financial goals and objectives. The fee for such ongoing services is a flat fee rather than an hourly or project-based fee. Consequently, this fee will not be calculated based upon the work performed. Instead, it is a recurring fee for the specific ongoing services that SPC has been retained to provide.
- The “Advisory Business” section was updated to disclose that SPC had $2,579,708,819 in discretionary assets under management as of December 31, 2016.
- The “Fees and Compensation” and “Brokerage Practices” sections were updated to disclose that SPC has a revenue-sharing agreement with Fidelity whereby SPC receives a portion of the 12b-1 fees that Fidelity collects as a result of certain mutual funds held in clients’ advisory accounts. This presents a potential conflict of interest, because SPC’s compensation increases when clients acquire these funds in their advisory accounts. However, this conflict is mitigated by two important factors: (1) SPC’s representatives receive none of this compensation, meaning they have no financial incentive to purchase such mutual funds; and (2) SPC does not intentionally direct or incentivize representatives to favor or purchase any particular mutual funds.
- The “Fees and Compensation” section was updated to disclose that SPC’s affiliated broker-dealers have entered into “tier sponsorship” agreements with certain alternative investment product sponsors. These agreements provide the sponsors with certain benefits (e.g., presentation opportunities at corporate conferences) in return for a flat dollar fee. These agreements are made between the broker-dealers and the sponsor, and the resulting compensation is disclosed on the broker-dealers’ public websites. SPC receives no direct compensation from the sponsors in connection therewith.
- The “Fees and Compensation” section was updated to disclose that SPC’s affiliated broker-dealers may offer new registered representatives either a bonus or a forgivable loan in order to help defray the expenses they incur when transitioning to a new firm. SPC is disclosing this compensation because such representatives often choose to associate with SPC as well. In certain circumstances, SPC may also choose to provide representatives with either a bonus or a forgivable loan, but solely to help defray transition costs.
- The “Types of Clients” section was updated to disclose that SPC’s minimum account size has been reduced to $10,000.

The most recent copy of this brochure can be requested at any time by calling the SPC Department at (888) 744-6264 or via download at www.spc4clients.com.

Table of Contents

Advisory Business	3
Fees and Compensation	9
Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management.....	10
Types of Clients	10
Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss	10
Disciplinary Information	13
Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations	13
Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading.....	13
Brokerage Practices	14
Review of Accounts.....	17
Client Referrals and Other Compensation	17
Custody	18
Investment Discretion	18
Voting Client Securities	18
Financial Information.....	18

Advisory Business

Description of Services and Fees

Sigma Planning Corporation (“SPC”) is registered with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission as an investment adviser. SPC is a corporation formed under Michigan law in 1983. SPC is also under common ownership with Sigma Financial Corporation (“SFC”) and Parkland Securities, LLC (“Parkland”), two independent broker-dealer firms that are each members of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc. (“FINRA”) as well as the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (“SIPC”). Jerome Rydell is the principal owner of SPC, SFC, and Parkland.

As used in this brochure, SPC’s “Associated Persons” are SPC’s officers, employees, and all individuals providing investment advice on behalf of SPC. Additionally, Associated Persons who provide investment advice are referred to as “Investment Adviser Representatives” (“IARs”) throughout this brochure. Finally, as used in this brochure, the words “we”, “our”, “our firm”, and “us” refer to SPC and/or its IAR who is assisting you, as the context requires, and the words “you”, “your”, and “client” refer to you, as the context requires, as either a client or prospective client of SPC.

With a commitment to personal service, SPC partners with IARs looking to grow their practices in a professional and ethical manner. We provide investment management, financial planning and consulting services, and other services which allow our IARs to manage the assets of Middle American investors.

Most but not all of our IARs are registered representatives of SFC or Parkland, which are affiliated broker-dealers. All of our IARs provide investment advisory services in their capacities as IARs of SPC, and those IARs who are also registered representatives provide brokerage services in their capacities as registered representatives of SFC or Parkland.

The following pages describe our services and fees. Please refer to the description of each investment advisory service listed below for information on how we tailor our advisory services to your individual needs. In certain cases we may provide clients with a complimentary general consultation to discuss available services, to give a potential client time to review desired services, and to determine the possibility of a client-adviser relationship.

Portfolio Management Services

We provide discretionary and nondiscretionary portfolio management services through the SIGMA Managed Account. The SIGMA Managed Account is tailored to meet your needs and investment objectives and is offered in both our Wrap Fee Program and in non-wrap accounts (described herein). The custodian for assets held in a SIGMA Managed Account is National Financial Services LLC, and the broker is Fidelity Brokerage Services LLC (the custodian and the broker and its affiliates are collectively referred to as “Fidelity”).

In the Wrap Fee Program, we manage client accounts for a single fee that includes portfolio management services as well as custodial and transaction/ticket charge costs. If you participate in the Wrap Fee Program, we will provide you with a separate Wrap Fee Program Brochure explaining the Program and the fees we receive in connection with our wrap account services.

There is no material difference between how our IARs manage SIGMA Managed Accounts established in our Wrap Fee Program and other non-wrap SIGMA Managed Accounts. However, in the case of SIGMA Managed Accounts established in our Wrap Fee Program, the IAR managing the account may be required to pay Fidelity ticket charges once the number of trades placed in the account exceeds a set limit for the applicable 12-month period. For the “Pricing B” option the limit is currently set at 200 trades. This financial disincentive to trade or execute transactions could create a conflict of interest.

If you retain SPC for portfolio management services, one of our IARs will meet with you to determine your financial situation, investment objectives, tolerance for risk, and other relevant information (collectively, the “suitability information”).

Please note that this brochure is not intended for Wrap Fee Program accounts, nor is it intended for employer-sponsored retirement plans or the trustees or sponsors of such plans. For information regarding the services we offer to retirement plans, please consult SPC’s Retirement Plan Program Brochure. A copy of any of SPC’s brochures can be obtained by contacting SPC using the information provided on the cover page of this brochure.

We will use the suitability information we gather to develop a strategy that enables us to give you continuous and focused investment advice and to recommend or make investments on your behalf. IARs may tailor services to focus only on certain portfolio components, depending upon your wishes and/or the nature of the engagement. However, if our services are limited, it is important to understand that comprehensive investment needs and/or objectives may not be fully considered due to your election to receive limited services and/or provide us with limited information.

Our portfolio management services, your IAR will customize an investment portfolio for you in accordance with your suitability information. Once your IAR constructs an investment portfolio for you, your IAR will monitor your portfolio's performance on an ongoing basis and will either rebalance the portfolio (in discretionary accounts) or recommend new allocations (for nondiscretionary accounts) as required by changes in market conditions and/or your financial circumstances.

If you participate in our discretionary portfolio management program, we require you to grant SPC and your IAR discretionary authority to manage your account. Discretionary authorization will allow us to determine the specific securities, as well as the amount of securities, to be purchased or sold for your account without your approval prior to each transaction. Discretionary authority is typically granted either by the client services agreement you sign with our firm or by trading authorization forms. You may limit our discretionary authority (for example, limiting the types of securities that can be purchased for your account) by providing our firm with your restrictions and guidelines in writing. Such restrictions and guidelines may affect the composition and performance of your portfolio and/or our ability to meet your investment objectives. For nondiscretionary accounts we will contact you prior to executing any transactions.

Clients who elect to receive asset management services through our SIGMA Managed Account program will pay SPC and their IAR for those services with an ongoing annual advisory fee based on a percentage of assets under management. The maximum annual advisory fee that can be charged by any IAR for any amount under management is 2.5%. Our advisory fee is flexible and negotiable, depending on individual client circumstances, but will not exceed this maximum. Our annual fee for non-wrap portfolio management services includes our standard Program Fee of ten basis points (0.1%).

We utilize a blended fee schedule to calculate our advisory fee. This is the fee schedule selected in your client services agreement which identifies the specific portions of your account value to be charged at different fee rates. The total value of your account at the end of the billing period is compared against this fee schedule, and the different fee rates are blended and applied to that account value to determine the total account fee for that billing period.

For example, assume an account value of $1,500,000 at the end of a 30-day billing period (e.g., the month of April) and the following blended fee schedule:

Account Value	Fee
$500,000 or below	2.50%
$500,001-$750,000	1.75%
$750,001-$1,000,000	1.50%
Greater than $1,000,000	1.25%

In this hypothetical example, the blended fee schedule would be applied as follows: The first $500,000 of the account value will be billed at a rate of 2.50%; the next $250,000 will be billed at a rate of 1.75%; the next $250,000 will be billed at a rate of 1.50%; and the remaining $500,000 will be billed at a rate of 1.25%.

Each of the different fee assessment amounts is added together (and scaled using an "actual/actual" day count convention to reflect the 30-day billing period and a 365-day calendar year) to determine the total account fee for that billing period, as follows:

$$\frac{30}{365} \times \{($500,000 \times 2.5\%) + ($250,000 \times 1.75\%) + ($250,000 \times 1.5\%) + ($500,000 \times 1.25\%)\} = $2,208.90$$

Our advisory fee is payable monthly in advance. The fee is based on the value of your account as of the last business day of the previous month. Advisory fees may be waived or offset if our firm and/or our affiliates receive commissions from the purchase, sale, exchange, conversion, or trade of assets held in your account that are equal to or exceed our annual advisory fee. IARs, in their discretion, may provide services without charging advisory fees to certain clients, which may include, but are not limited to, family members and charitable organizations.

In our discretion, we may combine the account values of family members living in the same household to determine the applicable advisory fee. For example, we may combine account values for you and your minor children, joint accounts with your spouse, and other types of related accounts.

We will either deduct our fee directly from your account through the qualified custodian holding your funds and securities or else we will invoice you directly. We will deduct our advisory fee only when you have given our firm written authorization permitting the fees to be paid directly from your account. Furthermore, the qualified custodian will deliver an account statement to you at least quarterly. These account statements will show all disbursements from your account. You should review all statements for accuracy.

The client services agreement between you and SPC includes language that permits us to modify or assign the agreement by means of certain negative consent procedures. Specifically, we may propose to increase or otherwise modify the fees charged, to modify the services provided, to assign the agreement, or to otherwise modify or amend the agreement by giving you a least sixty (60) days advance notice of the proposed modification. The notice will: (i) explain the proposed assignment or modification of the fees, services or other provisions of the agreement; (ii) fully disclose any resulting changes in the fees to be charged as a result of proposed modifications to the services or other provisions of the agreement; (iii) identify the effective date of the modifications; (iv) explain your right to reject, in writing, the modifications or terminate the agreement; and (v) state that pursuant to the provisions of the agreement, if you fail to object to the proposed modifications before the date on which the modifications become effective, you will be deemed to have consented to the proposed modifications. If you reject any modification to the agreement proposed by us in this manner, we will not be authorized to make the proposed modification without your affirmative consent.

In the event your IAR dies, becomes permanently disabled, or terminates his or her relationship with SPC, your client services agreement shall continue in full force and effect as between you and us. In determining the disposition of your discretionary managed account, we may, in our sole discretion, elect to take certain courses of action, as outlined in the client services agreement, by means of the negative consent procedures described above. Such courses of action may include: (i) providing more limited on-demand nondiscretionary services for a significantly reduced annual fee, (ii) reallocating your account among one or more model portfolios that we may offer, (iii) reallocating your account based on the algorithmic recommendations of a robo-advisor to which we may subscribe for advice, or (iv) converting your account to a retail account with Fidelity. Alternatively, you may request that we assist you with transferring your account to another investment advisor or provide your name and contact information to one or more IARs within your geographic proximity in order to locate a new representative to service your account. We are presently in the process of developing the options described in (i) through (iii) above and have not yet begun to utilize these options with clients. However, we have included these options in our client services agreement to reserve these options for future use. If and when we begin utilizing these options with clients, we will update this brochure accordingly to describe the options in greater detail, including, but not limited to, the applicable policies, procedures, fees, and potential conflicts of interest associated with each option.

The client services agreement may be canceled at any time, by either party, for any reason, upon written notice to the other party, as provided in such agreement. For the calendar month in which the client services agreement is terminated, our fee will be prorated and refunded based on the number of days that the client services agreement was in effect during such month.

Direct-at-Fund Programs

SPC offers more limited direct-at-fund programs for clients who are primarily or solely interested in the funds of a particular mutual fund company. A direct-at-fund program is a fee-based discretionary account held with a single mutual fund company that provides clients with access to lower-cost mutual fund shares that do not impose a sales load, surrender charges, or 12b-1 fees.

If you retain SPC for portfolio management services through a direct-at-fund program, one of our IARs will meet with you to determine your financial situation, investment objectives, tolerance for risk, and other relevant information (collectively, the "suitability information"). Based upon your suitability information, the IAR who services your direct-at-fund account will utilize an investment management methodology to construct and actively manage a portfolio consisting entirely of shares made available by the mutual fund company sponsoring the direct-at-fund program. Once your IAR constructs an investment portfolio for you, your IAR will monitor your portfolio's performance on an ongoing basis and will rebalance the portfolio as required by changes in market conditions and/or your financial circumstances.

Direct-at-fund programs are designed for managing client portfolios and accounts on a discretionary basis using the funds of a single mutual fund company. If you participate in a direct-at-fund program, we require you to grant SPC and your IAR discretionary authority to manage your direct-at-fund account. Discretionary authorization will allow us to determine the specific mutual funds to be purchased or sold in your account without your approval prior to each transaction. Discretionary authority is typically granted in both the client services agreement that you sign with SPC as well as the mutual fund company's account application and/or account conversion form. You may limit our discretionary authority (for example, limiting the types of mutual funds that can be purchased in your account) by providing SPC with your restrictions and guidelines in writing. Such restrictions and guidelines may affect the composition and performance of your portfolio and/or our ability to meet your investment objectives.

As a participant in a direct-at-fund program, you will pay SPC and your IAR an annual asset-based investment management fee of fifty basis points (0.5%). In addition, you will authorize the mutual fund company sponsoring the direct-at-fund program to deduct this fee from your account (or another of your accounts with the same mutual fund company) and remit the funds to SPC. The calculation of this investment management fee and the frequency and timing of such deductions, as well as any other account expenses and charges such as termination or transfer fees, will be determined in accordance with the instructions and authorizations included in the applicable mutual fund account application and/or mutual fund account conversion form that you sign in connection with your enrollment in the direct-at-fund program.

Please note that this brochure is not intended for Wrap Fee Program accounts, nor is it intended for employer-sponsored retirement plans or the trustees or sponsors of such plans. For information regarding the services we offer to retirement plans, please consult SPC's Retirement Plan Program Brochure. A copy of any of SPC's brochures can be obtained by contacting SPC using the information provided on the cover page of this brochure.

Recommendation of Third-Party Investment Advisers

As part of our investment advisory services, we may recommend that you utilize the services of a third-party investment adviser (“TPIA”) to manage your entire investment portfolio or a portion thereof. After gathering information about your financial situation and objectives, we will recommend that you engage a specific TPIA or investment program. Factors that we take into consideration when making our recommendation(s) include, but are not limited to, the TPIA's performance, methods of analysis, and fees as well as your financial needs, investment goals, risk tolerance, and investment objectives. Your IAR will periodically monitor the TPIA's performance to ensure its management and investment style remain aligned with your investment goals and objectives.

When recommending the services of a TPIA, your IAR will provide you with the TPIA's disclosure brochure and compensation disclosure document. Certain TPIAs require minimum portfolio conditions as outlined in each TPIA's disclosure brochure. You are never under any obligation to engage the services of any TPIA that we may recommend.

When we (through an IAR) recommend a TPIA to a client, we do so in our capacity as that TPIA's solicitor. As compensation for our services, we receive a referral fee from the TPIA that is typically a portion of the management fee charged by the TPIA (which may include performance-based fees). Our compensation may differ depending upon the individual agreement we have with each TPIA. As such, a conflict of interest may arise where our firm or our IARs may have an incentive to recommend TPIAs with whom we have more favorable compensation arrangements over other advisory programs offered by TPIAs with whom we have less favorable or no compensation arrangements. However, within the next year, our compensation arrangements with TPIAs may change as a result of recent fiduciary regulations and prohibited transaction exemptions issued by the U.S. Department of Labor. If and when our compensation arrangements are modified, we will update this brochure accordingly to describe the changes in greater detail.

Advisory fees that you pay to the TPIA are established and payable in accordance with the TPIA's disclosure brochure and/or client agreement. These fees may or may not be negotiable. You should review the recommended TPIA's disclosure brochure and take into consideration the TPIA's fees along with our fees to determine the total amount of fees payable when utilizing the services of TPIAs.

You will be required to sign an agreement directly with the recommended TPIA(s). You may terminate your advisory relationship with the TPIA according to the terms of your agreement with the TPIA. You should review each TPIA's disclosure brochure for specific information on how you may terminate your advisory relationship with the TPIA and how you may receive a refund, if applicable. You should contact the TPIA directly for questions regarding your advisory agreement with the TPIA.

TPIAs are responsible for the specialized portfolio management, portfolio reporting services, best execution review, quarterly reporting, trade error resolution, custodial reconciliations, and implementation of trades within their respective programs.

Financial Planning and Ongoing Consulting Services

We provide financial planning and consulting services on an hourly, fixed fee, project and/or ongoing basis. Services can be tailored to your needs and may be comprehensive in nature or may only focus on certain aspects of your financial situation. The scope of services to be provided will be memorialized in our Letter of Engagement which is the client agreement we use for financial planning and consulting services.

IARs may provide advice and assistance with respect to financial management, risk management, asset allocation, investment research, understanding the financial impact of divorce or marital status, estate planning, tax issues, retirement planning, education funding, goal setting, or other needs that you identify. The financial planning process will involve, in part, both the review of your current financial condition and the review of a questionnaire used to assist us in generating a report utilized for developing recommendations. The advice we offer may include recommendations for updates and reviews.

Financial Planning

We offer modular financial plans including:

- Asset Allocation Report
- College Cost Projection
- Insurance Needs Analysis
- Portfolio Review
- Estate Plan Review
- Retirement Plan Review
- Financial Review

Such plans will be developed based on recommendations consistent with your stated objectives and will include a summary of your goals, the various methods or strategies to be utilized, applicable target dates, and estimated fees for case implementation.

Additionally, we offer more detailed plans which may include one or more of the following:

- Broad-based Financial Plan
- Estate Plan
- High Net Worth Review

We may also provide, on a limited basis, consultations, advice, research, or project assistance relating to subjects which do not involve financial planning per se. For such services, we may charge an hourly, fixed, or project-based fee. The fee is negotiable and will be based upon the time, effort, and complexity of the engagement. Your IAR will not participate in any commission, transaction fee, or cost (if any) that may result or arise in connection with your use or implementation of our efforts, advice and/or recommendations. In such cases, you are solely responsible for executing the advice or recommendations, in whole or in part.

Financial planning engagements terminate upon the delivery of services and will not include any reviews, follow-ups, or other services. If other services are desired, you are welcome to secure additional or follow-up services via a new or amended agreement with our firm.

Financial plans are based on your financial situation at the time we present the plan to you and on the financial information you provide to our firm. You must promptly notify our firm if your financial situation, goals, objectives, or needs change.

Ongoing Consulting Services

In addition to financial plans, we also offer ongoing financial consulting services for clients who are interested in receiving continuous assistance with achieving their financial goals and objectives. If you elect this option, your IAR will be available to provide you with ongoing and as-needed financial consultations related to the specific issues that you identify in our Letter of Engagement. Our ongoing financial consulting services can be highly customized to fit your unique needs and situation.

Advice Implementation

You are welcome to implement any recommendations in whole or in part at the financial services firm of your choice. Your IAR is also available to assist with implementation services as well.

Your IAR may suggest that you work closely with your attorney, accountant, insurance agent, and the custodian of your account for implementation of a financial plan. You are free to use the service provider of your choice for implementation of any advice or recommendations pertaining to non-securities matters (such as insurance). When financial planning or consulting services only focus on certain areas, needs, or are otherwise limited, you should understand that your overall financial and investment needs and objectives may not be comprehensively considered as a result of time and/or service restraints that you place on our services. If you require assistance on issues relating to matters outside of investment advisory issues, such as accounting or legal issues, you should consult your accountant, legal counsel, or other qualified professionals for advice. When providing plan related services, the advice and recommendations are limited to plan offerings.

You are under no obligation to act on our financial planning recommendations. Should you choose to act on any of our recommendations, you are not obligated to implement the financial plan through any of our other investment advisory services. Moreover, you may act on our recommendations by placing securities transactions with any brokerage firm.

In connection with financial planning and/or consulting services, we may render advice relative to variable life/annuity products and/or individual employer-sponsored retirement plans. In such cases, your IAR will either direct or recommend the allocation of assets among the various mutual funds or subaccounts that comprise the investment options available through the variable life/annuity product or the retirement plan. Moreover, your assets will be maintained at the specific insurance company that issued the variable life/annuity product or at the custodian designated by the sponsor of the retirement plan. Please consult SPC's Retirement Plan Program Brochure for additional information regarding the services we offer to retirement plans.

Financial Planning and Ongoing Consulting Fees

Our fees for financial planning and consulting services are negotiable based upon the time and effort required and/or the nature and complexity of services.

Our hourly fee ranges up to $300 and a fee for staff time may be billed at $35 per hour.

For project-based fees, we use an hourly fee and take into account the time, effort, and complexity of services as a guide for determining the fee. No increase in the fees we charge will be effective without prior written notice. We may require an initial partial deposit of the proposed fee with the balance due upon completion of the services to be rendered. Additional fees may apply in the event your circumstances change during the course of our engagement and new advice, recommendations or research are required, or your IAR is required to expend additional effort to provide materially different advice, recommendations or other services. We will not engage in additional services that result in additional fees without your prior approval.

For modular financial plans, we charge a maximum of $750 per plan. For more comprehensive plans, fees will be determined on a case-by-case basis in accordance with the scope and complexity of the plan. We may charge additional fees for follow-up services depending upon the nature and complexity of the services requested, in addition to the scope of the engagement. In such cases, we would charge an hourly or project-based fee.

Clients who elect to receive ongoing financial consulting services will be billed either monthly or quarterly. The fee for such ongoing services is a flat fee rather than an hourly or project-based fee. Consequently, this fee will not be calculated based upon the work your IAR performs. Instead, it is a recurring fee for the specific ongoing services that you retain your IAR to provide.

For other services that do not involve general consultation or planning, we will charge a fee not to exceed 1% of the estimated total asset size in connection with the services provided.

At the discretion of your IAR, financial planning and consulting fees may be offset, in whole or in part, if you decide to implement the plan by purchasing securities or insurance through your IAR acting in his or her capacity as a registered representative or licensed insurance agent.

The financial planning Letter of Engagement includes language that permits us to modify or assign the Letter of Engagement by means of certain negative consent procedures. Specifically, we may propose to increase or otherwise modify the fees charged, to modify the services provided, to assign the Letter of Engagement, or to otherwise modify or amend the Letter of Engagement by giving you at least sixty (60) days advance notice of the proposed modification. The notice will: (i) explain the proposed assignment or modification of the fees, services or other provisions of the Letter of Engagement; (ii) fully disclose any resulting changes in the fees to be charged as a result of proposed modifications to the services or other provisions of the Letter of Engagement; (iii) identify the effective date of the modifications; (iv) explain your right to reject, in writing, the modifications or terminate the Letter of Engagement; and (v) state that pursuant to the provisions of the Letter of Engagement, if you fail to object to the proposed modifications before the date on which the modifications become effective, you will be deemed to have consented to the proposed modifications. If you reject any modification to the Letter of Engagement proposed by us in this manner, we will not be authorized to make the proposed modification without your affirmative consent.

The financial planning Letter of Engagement may be canceled at any time, by either party, for any reason, upon notice to the other party, as provided in the Letter of Engagement. In the event of termination, you will be charged for the portion of work performed, and you will receive a prorated refund of any pre-paid fees which we have not earned. Otherwise, except for ongoing service agreements, the agreement automatically terminates upon completion of the services to be rendered.

Seminars

From time to time IARs may hold seminars. These seminars may include presentations on general investment, insurance, or financial planning strategies. We may charge a fee to those in attendance, not to exceed $100 per attendee. In such cases, our refund or cancellation policy will be clearly outlined in the invitation or announcement. Attendees are welcome, but are never under any obligation, to utilize our other services.

Types of Investments

We do not primarily recommend or utilize one specific type of investment over another as each client has his or her own investment objectives, risk tolerance, needs, and goals. We may recommend investments in mutual funds; index funds; individual securities; exchange-traded funds; money market funds; certificates of deposit; commercial paper; variable life insurance and variable annuities; U.S. Government debt securities, mortgage-backed securities, municipal bonds, and other fixed-income securities; securities options and futures; certain wrap class alternative investments (such as hedge funds and managed futures funds); partnership investments involving real estate, oil and gas, equipment leasing, cable television, fast food franchising, agriculture, raw land, and alternative energy research/development; shares of real estate investment trusts ("REITs"); and leveraged buyouts.

SPC has relationships with certain REIT and other alternative investment sponsors whereby SPC acts as a selling agent in connection with the sponsor's "best efforts" offering of such securities. Due to the nature of this arrangement, clients who purchase alternative investments through SPC will do so on a net asset value (NAV) basis and pay an ongoing annual advisory fee in lieu of a sales commission. SPC will always perform a suitability analysis and obtain a client's consent before facilitating the client's purchase of such alternative investments, regardless of whether such investments will be held in a discretionary account.

Additionally, we may advise you on any type of investment that we deem appropriate based on your stated goals and objectives. We may also provide advice on any type of investment held in your portfolio at the inception of our advisory relationship.

Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2016, we manage $2,579,708,819 in client assets on a discretionary basis. In addition, we also have placed significant assets with various TPIAs.

Fees and Compensation

Please refer to the Advisory Business section in this brochure for information on our advisory fees, fee deduction arrangements, and refund policy according to each service we offer.

Additional Fees and Expenses

We utilize unaffiliated money market funds as temporary investment vehicles for the cash balances in all investment accounts. In such cases, the overall fees charged on managed account values will include these money market balances. Where permitted by law, in order to provide concise reporting and administration of such money market balances for clients, we or the custodian (or its affiliates) may have arrangements with the money market funds to provide advisory, administrative, distribution and/or other services, subject to applicable restrictions. Where permitted by law, we or the clearing agent (or its affiliates) may receive a fee for these specialized services from the money market fund (or its service providers) that is in addition to the fees paid by clients under the described programs. For clients that are subject to ERISA or the prohibited transaction provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, applicable law may limit the extent to which such fees may be retained, and may require a fee offset.

As part of our investment advisory services to you, we may invest, or recommend that you invest, in mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. The fees that you pay to us for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds or exchange-traded funds (which are described in each fund's prospectus) to their shareholders. These fees will generally include a management fee and other fund expenses. The fees noted herein represent fees for advisory services only. You will also incur transaction charges and/or brokerage fees when purchasing or selling securities as well as any fees associated with particular accounts (e.g., account opening, maintenance, transfer, termination, retirement plan, fiduciary, and all such applicable third-party fees, deferred sales charges, oddlot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage). These charges and fees are typically imposed by the broker-dealer or custodian through whom your account transactions are executed. A list of transaction-related fees is available for review by contacting us at (734) 663-1611. To fully understand the total costs you will incur, you should review all the fees charged by mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, our firm, and other service providers. For information on our brokerage practices, please refer to the Brokerage Practices section of this brochure.

Compensation for the Sale of Securities or Other Investment Products

Securities

IARs providing investment advice on behalf of our firm generally are registered representatives with either SFC or Parkland. In their capacity as registered representatives, these persons receive commission-based compensation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities, including 12b-1 fees for the sale of investment company products (i.e., mutual funds). Compensation earned by these persons in their capacities as registered representatives is separate from and in addition to our advisory fees. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on behalf of our firm who are registered representatives have an incentive to effect securities transactions for the purpose of generating commissions rather than solely based on your needs. When suitable, we generally recommend no-load mutual funds for advisory accounts. You are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to buy or sell securities or investment products through any person affiliated with our firm.

Insurance

In addition, our affiliates (SFC and Parkland) are licensed insurance agencies, and some IARs of our firm are also licensed as independent insurance agents with the ability to sell certain insurance policies and products (i.e., life insurance, health insurance, long-term care insurance, and fixed annuities). Such insurance agents will earn commissions from selling insurance policies and products to our clients. In addition, SFC or Parkland may also receive compensation in connection with such sale of insurance policies and products, depending on the nature of the sales. Insurance commissions earned in this manner are separate from, and in addition to, our advisory fees. The sale of insurance presents a conflict of interest because individuals providing investment advice on behalf of our firm who are licensed insurance agents have an incentive to recommend insurance products to you for the purpose of generating commissions rather than solely based on your needs. However, you are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to purchase insurance products through SFC, Parkland, or any person affiliated with our firm.

Revenue-Sharing Agreement

We have a revenue-sharing agreement with Fidelity whereby we (but not our IARs) receive a portion of the 12b-1 fees that Fidelity collects as a result of certain mutual funds held in clients' advisory accounts. This presents a potential conflict of interest, because our compensation increases when clients acquire these funds in their advisory accounts. However, this conflict is mitigated by two important factors: (1) IARs receive none of this compensation, meaning they have no financial incentive to purchase such mutual funds; and (2) we do not intentionally direct or incentivize IARs to favor or purchase any particular mutual funds.

Tier Sponsorship Agreements

Our affiliated broker-dealers, SFC and Parkland, have entered into "tier sponsorship" agreements with certain alternative investment product sponsors. These agreements provide the sponsors with certain benefits (e.g., presentation opportunities at corporate conferences) in return for a flat dollar fee. These agreements are made between the broker-dealers and the sponsor, and the resulting compensation is disclosed on the broker-dealers' public websites. We are disclosing these arrangements because alternative investments issued by some of these sponsors are held in SPC advisory accounts, although we receive no direct compensation from the sponsors in connection therewith.

Forgivable Loans and Bonuses

Our affiliated broker-dealers, SFC and Parkland, may offer new registered representatives either a bonus or a forgivable loan in order to help defray the expenses they incur when transitioning to a new firm. We are disclosing this compensation because such representatives often choose to associate with SPC as well. In certain circumstances, we may also choose to provide representatives with either a bonus or a forgivable loan, but solely to help defray transition costs.

Other Compensation

Various vendors, product providers, distributors, and other third parties may provide non-monetary compensation to us by paying some expenses related to training and education, including the expenses of travel and acquiring professional designations. We might also receive payments from such entities to subsidize our own internal training programs. Additionally, certain vendors may invite us to participate in conferences or online training and may also provide us with access to publications that may further IARs' and employees' skills and knowledge. Finally, such entities may occasionally provide us with gifts, meals, and entertainment of reasonable value consistent with industry rules and regulations.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We do not charge performance-based fees. However, certain TPIAs we recommend may charge performance-based fees, and we may receive a portion of such fees. Performance-based fees are based on a share of capital gains or capital appreciation in the advisory account. IARs may have an incentive to recommend TPIAs who charge performance-based fees over others that do not. You should refer to the TPIA's disclosure brochure for further information on any performance-based fees the TPIA may charge and the conflicts of interest that presents.

Types of Clients

We offer investment advisory services to individuals, banks and thrift institutions, retirement plans, pension and profit-sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations, and other business entities. Please consult SPC's Retirement Plan Program Brochure for information regarding the services we offer to employer-sponsored retirement plans, including pension and profit-sharing plans.

For portfolio management services, we require a minimum account size of $10,000 for accounts maintained at Fidelity. In our discretion, we may waive these minimums. We may combine account values for you and your minor children, joint accounts with your spouse, and other types of related accounts to meet the stated minimum. In addition, TPIAs may impose their own account minimums.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

IARs work directly with you to evaluate your stated needs and objectives. IARs attempt to measure a client's stated risk tolerance, time horizon, goals, and objectives through an interview and data-gathering process in an effort to determine an investment plan or portfolio that best fits the client's profile.

Investment strategies may be based upon a number of concepts and determined by the type of client. IARs each provide individualized advisory services to their clients. The investment advisory strategies utilized by our IARs may range from speculative to conservative, but each is designed to meet the varying needs of our clients. IARs determine which portfolios are suitable after working with clients to define their objectives, risk tolerance, and time horizons.

IARs generally follow a portfolio construction and review process when developing advice and recommendations based upon information provided by clients. There are two components to our portfolio management process: (1) individual security selection, and (2) the asset allocation process.

IARs may utilize portfolio models which are designed to target specific degrees of investment risk, ranging from conservative to speculative. IARs generally conduct portfolio reviews on a quarterly basis to ensure adherence to the risk objective for each portfolio. IARs may also utilize asset allocation software and historical performance modeling software.

As noted in the “Advisory Business” section above, IARs may recommend to clients the services of TPIAs who offer various investment management platforms. When an IAR recommends and helps place a client with a TPIA, the IAR will review the TPIA's investment strategies and past performance and monitor the TPIA's ongoing performance to the extent available. The methods of analysis and investment strategies utilized by a given TPIA are disclosed in that TPIA's disclosure brochure.

IARs have access to the SPC home office as well as that of SFC and Parkland. IARs may consult with the due diligence staff of our affiliated broker-dealers regarding various investments including mutual funds, alternative investments, variable annuities, and TPIAs.

For financial planning services, IARs generally take a long-term perspective. After your IAR evaluates your short-term cash needs and emergency funds, he or she can then develop investment and insurance strategies to assist you in achieving your stated goals and objectives.

IARs may use one or more of the following methods of analysis or investment strategies when providing investment advice:

- Charting and Technical Analysis – Charting analysis involves the gathering and processing of price and volume information for a particular security. This price and volume information is analyzed using mathematical equations. The resulting data is then applied to graphing charts, which are used to predict future price movements based on price patterns and trends. Technical analysis involves studying past price patterns and trends in the financial markets to predict the direction of both the overall market and specific stocks. The risk of market timing based on technical analysis is that charts may not accurately predict future price movements. Current prices of securities may reflect all information known about the security and day-to-day changes in market prices of securities may follow random patterns and may not be predictable with any reliable degree of accuracy.
- Fundamental Analysis – Fundamental analysis involves analyzing individual companies and their industry groups, usually through reviewing a company's financial statements, details regarding the company's product line, the experience and expertise of the company's management, and the outlook for the company's industry. The resulting data is then used to estimate the true value of the company's stock compared to the current market value. The risk of fundamental analysis is that information obtained may be incorrect and the analysis may not provide an accurate estimate of earnings, which may be the basis for a security's value. If securities prices adjust rapidly to new information, utilizing fundamental analysis may not result in favorable performance.
- Cyclical Analysis – Cyclical analysis is a type of technical analysis that involves evaluating recurring price patterns and trends based upon business cycles. Economic and business cycles may not be predictable and may have many fluctuations between long-term expansions and contractions. The lengths of economic cycles may also be difficult to predict with accuracy. The risk of cyclical analysis is the difficulty in predicting economic trends and consequently the changing value of securities that would be affected by these changing trends.
- Long-Term Purchases – Securities purchased with the expectation that the value of those securities will grow over a relatively long period of time, generally greater than one year.
- Short-Term Purchases – Securities purchased with the expectation that they will be sold within a relatively short period of time, generally less than one year, to take advantage of short-term price fluctuations.
- Margin Transactions – These are securities transactions in which an investor borrows money to purchase a security, in which case the security serves as collateral on the loan.

- Options Trading/Writing – A securities transaction that involves buying or selling (i.e., writing) an option. If an investor writes an option, and the buyer exercises the option before it expires, the investor will be obligated to purchase or deliver a specific number of shares at a specific price regardless of the current market value of the underlying security. Conversely, purchasing an option gives the holder the right to purchase or sell a specified number of shares at a specified price until the option expires, regardless of the current market value of the underlying security.

TPIAs each have their own methods of analysis, investment strategies, and unique investment risks that you should review and consider before investing.

Our investment strategies and advice may vary depending upon each client's specific needs and financial situation. As such, we determine investments and allocations based upon a client's predefined objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, financial horizon, financial information, liquidity needs, and other various suitability factors. Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities. Any restrictions, guidelines, or constraints imposed by a client may affect the composition of the client's portfolio.

We may use short-term trading (in general, selling a security within 30 days of purchasing the same security) as an investment strategy when managing accounts. Short-term trading is not a fundamental part of our overall investment strategy, but we may occasionally use this strategy when we determine that it is suitable given a client's stated investment objectives and tolerance for risk.

We may use investment strategies that involve the frequent buying and selling of securities in an effort to capture significant gains and avoid significant losses during volatile market conditions. However, frequent trading can negatively affect investment performance, particularly through increased brokerage and other transactional costs and taxes.

You should note that if we effect short-term transactions in an account, such transactions might result in short-term gains or losses for federal and state tax purposes. Our strategies and investments may have unique and significant tax implications. However, unless we specifically agree otherwise in writing, tax efficiency is not our primary consideration in our management of assets. Regardless of account size or any other factors, we strongly recommend that clients continuously consult with qualified tax counsel to ensure compliance with applicable tax laws and IRS regulations.

Options trading may be highly speculative and may entail more risks than those present when investing in other types of securities. Option prices are generally more volatile than prices of other types of securities. When trading options, clients may run the risk of losing the entire investment in a relatively short period of time. With more risky option strategies, an investor could theoretically have an unlimited risk of loss.

All investments involve risk and investment performance can never be predicted or guaranteed. Account values may fluctuate (perhaps significantly) due to market conditions, manager performance, and other factors. The use of any benchmark or index in connection with investment management services is no guarantee that the performance of the managed investments will experience the same results as the index or benchmark, including the results shown on the various reports that are delivered in connection with the investment management services. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Cost Basis Reporting

As a result of revised IRS regulations, custodians and broker-dealers will begin reporting the cost basis of equities acquired in client accounts on or after January 1, 2011. Custodians will default to the FIFO accounting method for calculating the cost basis of investments. You are responsible for contacting your tax advisor to determine if this accounting method is the correct or most advantageous choice. In the event it is not, you should provide prompt written notice to your IAR and we will alert the account custodian of the individually selected accounting method. Please note that all decisions regarding cost basis accounting methods must be made before trades settle, as the cost basis method cannot be changed after settlement.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear. We do not represent or guarantee that our services or methods of analysis can or will successfully predict future results, identify market tops or bottoms, or insulate clients from losses due to market corrections or declines. We cannot offer any guarantees or promises that your financial goals and objectives will be met. Past performance is in no way indicative of future performance or success.

Recommendation of Particular Types of Securities

As disclosed under the "Advisory Business" section in this brochure, we recommend a variety of investments and we do not necessarily recommend one particular type of security over another since each client has his or her own investment objectives, risk tolerance, needs, and goals.

Disciplinary Information

As a fiduciary, we are committed to providing our clients with full disclosure regarding any material disciplinary information relating to our firm or our IARs. At present, we have no material legal or disciplinary events to report regarding SPC or any of its management persons. However, SPC's IARs may have reportable disciplinary information. Please obtain and read a copy of your IAR's Brochure Supplement for more information.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

IARs are generally registered representatives with SFC or Parkland, both of which are affiliated broker-dealers. Please see the "Fees and Compensation" section in this brochure for more information regarding the compensation received by registered representatives.

It is important to note that clients are under no obligation to grant SPC and its IARs investment discretion. Clients should understand that the investment products, securities, and services that an IAR may select or offer in connection with providing investment advisory services are generally available through other broker-dealers, investment advisers, or investment firms not affiliated with SPC.

Clients should also understand that SPC and its IARs may perform advisory and/or brokerage services for various other clients, and that SPC and its IARs may give advice or take actions for some clients that differ from the advice given or actions taken for other clients. The timing or nature of any action taken for a client may also be different from that of other clients.

SFC and Parkland are also licensed as insurance agencies. Some IARs of our firm are also licensed insurance agents. IARs acting in their capacity as insurance agents will earn commission-based compensation from selling insurance products (e.g., fixed annuities) and policies (e.g., life insurance). Depending on the circumstances, SFC and Parkland may also receive compensation from such sales. Insurance commissions are separate from our advisory fees. Please see the "Fees and Compensation" section in this brochure for more information on the compensation received by insurance agents who are affiliated with our firm.

Some IARs may also own their own accounting firm, law firm and/or independent registered investment adviser. For clients in need of accounting, legal, or other advisory services, such IARs may recommend that clients retain these entities for such services. The fees for such services are separate and apart from the advisory fees charged by SPC. You are under no obligation to use any IAR's affiliated entity, as you may select and use the service provider of your choice.

Based on your needs and objectives, we may recommend that you utilize the services of a TPIA. We may receive compensation from the TPIA in the event you decide to utilize the TPIA's services. These compensation arrangements present a conflict of interest because we have a financial incentive to recommend the services of such TPIAs. You are not obligated, contractually or otherwise, to utilize the services of any TPIA that we may recommend.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Description of Our Code of Ethics

We strive to comply with applicable laws and regulations governing our practices. Therefore, our Code of Ethics includes guidelines for our Associated Persons' professional standards of conduct. Our goal is to demonstrate our commitment to our fiduciary duties of honesty, good faith, and fair dealing with you. All of our Associated Persons are expected to adhere strictly to these guidelines. Our Code of Ethics also requires that certain persons associated with our firm submit reports of their personal account holdings and transactions to a qualified representative of our firm who will review these reports on a periodic basis. Associated Persons are also required to report any violations of our Code of Ethics. Additionally, we maintain and enforce written policies reasonably designed to prevent the misuse or dissemination of material, nonpublic information about you or your account holdings by persons associated with our firm.

Our Code of Ethics is available to you upon request. You may obtain a copy of our Code of Ethics by contacting the SPC Department at (888) 744-6264 or spcinfo@bdops.com.

Agency Cross Transactions

We may execute purchase and sale transactions between two clients (referred to as "agency cross transactions"), provided such transactions comply with our procedures and Rule 206(3)-2 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Act"). We may have a conflicting duty of loyalty to both of the clients for whom we conduct agency cross transactions, and our affiliated broker-dealers (SFC and Parkland) may earn commissions in connection with agency cross transactions.

We have adopted agency cross transaction procedures that are designed to promote fairness among the client accounts we manage and to conform to applicable regulatory principles. We will only conduct an agency cross transaction if a client has consented in advance to such a transaction, either in the client's account agreement or in a separate written consent. Each agency cross transaction will be effected at the independent current market price of the security. We will send to both clients participating in the agency cross transaction a written confirmation at or before the completion of each transaction containing: (i) a statement of the nature of such transaction; (ii) the date such transaction took place; (iii) an offer to furnish, upon request, the time when such transaction took place; and (iv) the source and amount of any compensation or other remuneration received (or to be received) by us or our affiliates. We will also send the client an annual summary of all agency cross transactions. A client's written consent authorizing us to effect agency cross transactions on his or her behalf may be revoked by the client at any time by means of written notice to SPC.

Personal Trading Practices

IARs and other Associated Persons may buy or sell the same securities for you at the same time we or persons associated with our firm buy or sell such securities for our own accounts. We may also combine our orders to purchase securities with your orders to purchase securities ("block trading"). Please refer to the "Brokerage Practices" section in this brochure for information on our block trading practices.

A conflict of interest exists in such cases because we have the ability to trade ahead of you and potentially receive more favorable prices than you will receive. To mitigate this conflict of interest, it is our policy that neither we nor any of our Associated Persons shall have priority over your account in the purchase or sale of securities. This policy is enforced by reviewing Associated Person trades to determine whether any Associated Person (i) profited from trading ahead of his or her clients, or (ii) received more favorable pricing than clients on same-day trades. Associated Persons are not permitted to retain any profits from such activities.

Brokerage Practices

Dual Registration

As discussed herein, certain IARs in their respective individual capacities may be registered representatives of SFC or Parkland ("dually registered IARs"). All dually registered IARs are subject to FINRA Rule 3280, which restricts registered representatives from conducting securities transactions away from their broker-dealer unless the broker-dealer provides written consent. Therefore, clients are advised that dually registered IARs may be restricted to conducting securities transactions through SFC or Parkland unless they first secure written consent to execute securities transactions through a different broker-dealer. Absent such written consent or separation from their broker-dealer, these IARs are prohibited from executing securities transactions through any broker-dealer other than SFC or Parkland under each entity's internal supervisory policies. The information contained in this paragraph is not applicable to IARs who are not dually registered.

Brokerage Firm and Custodial Choices

With regard to brokerage transactions, financial planning and consulting clients can use any brokerage firm of their choice to implement any advice we provide. However, because our firm is related to, and many of our IARs are registered representatives with, SFC or Parkland, if you choose to implement our advice through our IARs, we will use SFC or Parkland for securities transactions.

In recommending broker-dealers for custodial services, we consider the following:

- Quality of overall execution services provided
- Promptness of execution
- Creditworthiness, financial condition, and business reputation
- Research provided (if any)
- Promptness and accuracy of reports on execution
- Ability and willingness to correct errors
- Promptness and accuracy of confirmation statements
- The broker-dealer's facilities and technology
- The securities trading markets and market centers to which the broker-dealer has access
- Any expertise in executing trades for particular types of securities
- Transaction costs
- Reliability of the broker-dealer
- Ability to use electronic communication networks to gain liquidity, price improvement, lower ticket charges, and anonymity
- Execution and operational capabilities of the broker-dealer

Clients may pay ticket charges that are higher than what other qualified broker-dealers might charge to effect the same transactions in the circumstances where we determine, in good faith, that such ticket charges are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services provided. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including, among other considerations, the value of research provided, execution capability, ticket charges, and responsiveness of the broker-dealer. Consistent with the foregoing, while we will seek competitive rates, we may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible ticket charges for client transactions.

You should evaluate these custodians before opening an account. While it is possible that you may pay higher ticket charges or transaction fees through our recommended custodians, we believe they currently offer the best overall value for the ticket charges imposed.

SPC has an arrangement with Fidelity through which Fidelity provides SPC and its IARs with services and other benefits to help us conduct our business and serve all types of clients. SPC is independently owned and operated and is not affiliated with Fidelity. National Financial Services LLC is also the clearing firm utilized by SFC and Parkland. SPC is required to disclose products, services, and other assistance it receives that may not directly benefit your account or may cause conflicts of interest for your IAR.

Fidelity may pay for or provide us with technology platforms or other software to access Fidelity's brokerage system and streamline our operations. These systems aid us in providing service to client accounts and include software that makes available client account data, facilitates trade execution, allocates aggregated trade orders, facilitates payment of fees from client accounts, and assists with back office functions such as record-keeping and client reporting.

In certain instances, groups of two or more IARs may elect to operate and conduct business from the same SPC branch office and/or form a joint business association spanning multiple branch offices in different locations. You should be aware that if your IAR works out of such an office and/or participates in such a joint business association, each of the other IARs in your IAR's office and/or the joint business association will have the ability to see your account information and process trades in your account(s), solely in a ministerial capacity, at the instruction of your IAR. However, authority over your account(s) shall continue to reside solely with your IAR.

Fidelity also offers other services intended to help SPC manage and further develop its advisory practice. Such services include, but are not limited to, performance reporting, financial planning, contact management systems, third-party research, publications, access to educational conferences, roundtable discussions, webinars, practice management resources, access to consultants, and other third-party service providers who offer a wide array of business-related services and technology with whom SPC may contract directly. Fidelity provides investment research to help IARs make well-informed investment decisions for client accounts.

Fidelity may assist SPC in marketing activities, which could include providing marketing materials, co-sponsoring events, or engaging in joint marketing programs. Fidelity may also assist IARs in joining the Fidelity platform and in some cases may pay or waive account transfer fees or other charges that you or other clients may incur when changing custodians or service providers.

On occasion, Fidelity may make direct payments to SPC for items such as reimbursing SPC or an IAR for reasonable travel expenses incurred when assessing Fidelity's business practices and operations. Fidelity also may pay SPC for performing certain back office administrative, custodial support, and clerical services for Fidelity in connection with client accounts custodied with Fidelity. These payments may create an incentive for IARs to favor certain types of investments over others.

The services described above, as well as other services Fidelity may provide to SPC, are often provided to SPC for free or at a discount. The terms of these agreements between Fidelity and SPC may be better or worse than the terms offered to other investment advisers and may depend on the type or amount of business SPC conducts with Fidelity. Other factors may be considered as well, including the amount of assets placed in accounts with Fidelity within a certain timeframe. IARs may be motivated by these factors when recommending Fidelity accounts to clients. It is possible that some or all of the products and services Fidelity offers to SPC may not directly benefit you.

SPC and Fidelity have established pricing on ticket charges, account transactions, and other service fees for accounts SPC custodies at Fidelity. This pricing was determined based upon the current and expected type and amount of business SPC conducts with Fidelity. For trades involving stocks and exchange-traded funds in non-wrap accounts, SPC may receive a ticket charge mark-up which varies based upon a variety of factors, including, but not limited to, the specific securities involved in the transaction, the size of the trade, and the client's account features. The economic benefits from such mark-ups are remitted monthly to SPC in the form of soft dollars; IARs do not receive any direct economic benefits or compensation from such mark-ups. SPC's use of soft dollars is described below in greater detail. Fidelity generally does not charge its investment adviser clients separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through ticket charges and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Fidelity or that settle into Fidelity accounts (i.e., transactions fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds, whereas ticket charges are imposed for individual equity and debt securities transactions). Fidelity also provides access to many no-load mutual funds without transaction charges and other no-load mutual funds at nominal transaction charges.

Additional Compensation

We have written or verbal arrangements whereby we receive soft dollars. Such arrangements are structured in accordance with Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. We may receive certain added benefits when clients utilize the custodians we recommend. Such benefits may include research, the ability to deduct advisory fees from clients' custodial accounts, discounts on periodicals or materials, complimentary business and compliance newsletters, and various other non-cash services. Any general research received is used for the benefit of all SPC clients. Other soft dollar benefits are available to all IARs and can be used with any or all SPC clients at their discretion. The value of products, research, and services provided by a custodian, if any, is negligible and not a material factor; however, the use of soft dollars benefits us because we do not have to create or pay for any such research, products, or services.

We may also receive from Fidelity, without cost to us, computer software and related systems support which allow us to better monitor client accounts maintained at Fidelity. We may receive the software and related support without cost because we render portfolio management services to clients that maintain assets at Fidelity. The software and related systems support may benefit us but not directly benefit our clients. We endeavor at all times to put the interests of our clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that our receipt of economic benefits from broker-dealers creates a conflict of interest since these benefits may influence us to select a broker-dealer that offers such benefits over other broker-dealers that do not furnish similar software, systems support, or services and may cause clients to pay higher ticket charges than those charged by other broker-dealers. Additionally, we may receive the following benefits from Fidelity: receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements; access to a trading desk that exclusively services its investment adviser participants; access to block trading which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts; and access to an electronic communication network for client order entry and account information.

Finally, we have a revenue-sharing agreement with Fidelity whereby we (but not our IARs) receive a portion of the 12b-1 fees that Fidelity collects as a result of certain mutual funds held in clients' advisory accounts. This presents a potential conflict of interest, because our compensation increases when clients acquire these funds in their advisory accounts. However, this conflict is mitigated by two important factors: (1) IARs receive none of this compensation, meaning they have no financial incentive to purchase such mutual funds; and (2) we do not intentionally direct or incentivize IARs to favor or purchase any particular mutual funds.

Block Trading

Transactions for each client generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time ("block trade" or "aggregate"). We may (but are not obligated to) aggregate such orders to obtain best execution, to obtain more favorable ticket charge pricing, or to allocate equitably among clients any differences in prices and ticket charges or other transaction costs that might have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. If orders are aggregated under this procedure, we will distribute a portion of the shares to participating accounts in a fair and equitable manner. The distribution of the shares purchased is typically proportionate to the size of the account, but it is not based on account performance or the amount or structure of management fees. Subject to our discretion regarding factual and market conditions, when we combine orders, each participating account pays an average price per share for all transactions and pays a proportionate share of all transaction costs. Accounts owned by our firm or Associated Persons may participate in block trading with your accounts; however, they will not be given preferential treatment.

In the event we determine that a prorated allocation is not appropriate under the particular circumstances, the allocation will be made based upon other relevant factors, such as the following: (i) when only a small percentage of the order is executed, shares may be allocated to the account with the smallest order or the smallest position or to an account that is out of line with respect to security or sector weightings relative to other portfolios with similar mandates; (ii) allocations may be given to one account when one account has limitations in its investment guidelines which prohibit it from purchasing other securities which are expected to produce similar investment results and can be purchased by other accounts; (iii) if an account reaches an investment guideline limit and cannot participate in an allocation, shares may be reallocated to other accounts (this may be due to unforeseen changes in an account's assets after an order is placed); (iv) with respect to sale allocations, allocations may be given to accounts low in cash; (v) in cases when a pro rata allocation of a potential execution would result in a de minimis allocation in one or more accounts, we may exclude the accounts from the allocation and the transactions may be executed on a pro rata basis among the remaining accounts; and (vi) in cases where a small proportion of an order is executed in all accounts, shares may be allocated to one or more accounts on a random basis.

Trade Errors

In the event a trading error occurs in your account, our policy is to restore your account to the position it should have been in had the trading error not occurred. Depending on the circumstances, corrective actions may include canceling the trade, adjusting an allocation and/or reimbursing the account. If a trade error results in a profit you will not keep the profit as it will be maintained by the broker-dealer custodian or by our firm.

Review of Accounts

Portfolio Management

IARs conduct internal portfolio reviews no less than quarterly or more frequently as needed based upon individual circumstances and the nature and/or complexity of the portfolio. Internal reviews may also occur as a result of market conditions, significant new account deposits or withdrawals, upon request, or as otherwise determined by the IAR. We request that clients meet with their IAR at least annually to ensure the investment plan/strategies continue to be aligned with their stated individual needs, goals, objectives, time horizon, and risk tolerance. However, clients are obligated to promptly inform us of any change in their financial condition or circumstances.

Clients engaging us for portfolio management services must play an active role. We require you to participate in the formation of your investment plan and provide us with needed information to develop investment advice and recommendations. During the course of the engagement, without restriction, you may call your IAR to discuss your portfolio or ask questions, but we recommend that you meet with your IAR no less than annually.

You will receive monthly or quarterly statements from your account custodians, depending on account activity. Additionally, we create quarterly portfolio reports using third-party software which detail the performance of your account and other pertinent information. We make such reports available to clients exclusively on an electronic basis. Any unsupervised portfolio holdings disclosed therein are assets in your account which are not managed on a discretionary basis. These assets ordinarily consist of either legacy positions (e.g., employer stock) or investments which paid the selling broker a commission at the time of sale. Unsupervised portfolio holdings are excluded from consideration when calculating both the management fee as well as the performance figures disclosed in the report. SPC does not custody your assets and therefore relies on third-party custodians and vendors to provide pricing and valuation data. SPC makes reasonable efforts to obtain data which it believes is accurate, though SPC does not verify the values and prices provided by these third parties. As SPC is not the custodian, SPC is not liable for any damages due to inaccurate data.

Financial Planning and Consulting Services

Financial planning and consulting services are generally not ongoing in nature and therefore we do not provide reviews or follow-up services unless specifically outlined in our written agreement with you. Consultation and financial planning services terminate upon the delivery of services or as otherwise stated in such agreement. While the advice may include the recommendation for a review or follow-up services, it is your responsibility to secure additional or follow-up services.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Referral Program

Our IARs may recommend to clients that they utilize the asset management services of a TPIA. Consistent with Rule 206(4)-3 of the Act, we may receive compensation from the TPIA in our role as a solicitor in the event you decide to utilize the recommended TPIA's services. Such compensation arrangements present a conflict of interest because we have a financial incentive to recommend the services of such TPIAs to you. You are not obligated, contractually or otherwise, to utilize the services of any TPIA that we may recommend.

From time to time we may compensate certain individuals for referring clients to our firm. We may compensate certain approved and licensed professionals for referrals of clients. These professionals generally include Certified Public Accountants, Enrolled Agents before the IRS, and attorneys (collectively, "Solicitors"). In order to receive a cash referral fee from our firm, Solicitors must comply with the requirements of the jurisdiction in which they operate. If you were referred to our firm by a Solicitor, you should have received a copy of this brochure along with the Solicitor's disclosure statement at the time of the referral. If you become a client, the Solicitor that referred you to our firm will receive a percentage of the advisory fee for as long as you remain a client with our firm or until such time as our agreement with the Solicitor expires. You will not pay additional fees because of this referral arrangement. Referral fees paid to a Solicitor are contingent upon your entering into an advisory agreement with our firm. Therefore, a Solicitor has a financial incentive to recommend our firm to you for advisory services. This creates a conflict of interest; however, you are not obligated to retain our firm for advisory services. Comparable services and/or lower fees may be available through other firms. Solicitors that refer business to more than one investment adviser may have a financial incentive to recommend advisers with more favorable compensation arrangements.

Other Compensation

As disclosed under the “Fees and Compensation” section in this brochure, our broker-dealer affiliates (SFC and Parkland) are licensed insurance agencies and registered broker-dealers. Also, persons providing investment advice on behalf of our firm may be licensed insurance agents as well as registered representatives with SFC or Parkland. For information on the conflicts of interest this presents, and how we address these conflicts, please refer to the “Fees and Compensation” and “Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations” sections of this brochure.

Custody

We directly debit your account(s) for the payment of our advisory fees for accounts custodied at Fidelity. This ability to deduct our advisory fees from your account(s) causes our firm to exercise limited custody over your funds or securities. We do not have physical custody of any of your funds or securities. Your funds and securities will be held with a bank, broker-dealer, or other independent qualified custodian. You will receive account statements from the independent qualified custodian holding your funds and securities at least quarterly. The account statements from your custodian will indicate the amount of our advisory fees deducted from your account(s) each billing period. You should carefully review those statements. You should also compare the account statement received from the custodian with any statements or reports you receive from us.

If your account is custodied by a TPIA, please refer to the TPIA’s Form ADV Part 2A Brochure for disclosures regarding their custody information.

If you have a question regarding your account statement, or if you did not receive a statement from your custodian, please contact the SPC Department at (888) 744-6264 or spcinfo@bdops.com.

Investment Discretion

Before we can buy or sell securities on your behalf, you must first sign our discretionary management agreement. By signing our discretionary management agreement, you grant our firm discretion over the selection and amount of securities to be purchased or sold for your account(s) without obtaining your consent or approval prior to each transaction. Please refer to the “Advisory Business” section in this brochure for more information regarding our discretionary management services.

Our investment authority may be subject to specific conditions you impose. For example, you may specify that the investment in any particular industry should not exceed specific percentages of the value of your portfolio. Such restrictions and guidelines may affect the composition and performance of your portfolio and/or our ability to meet your investment objectives.

Voting Client Securities

Proxy Voting

We will not vote proxies on behalf of your advisory accounts. At your request, we may offer you advice regarding corporate actions and the exercise of your proxy voting rights. If you own shares of common stock or mutual funds, you are responsible for exercising your right to vote as a shareholder.

In most cases, you will receive proxy materials directly from the account custodian. However, in the event we were to receive any written or electronic proxy materials, we may forward them directly to you by mail, unless you have authorized our firm to contact you by electronic mail, in which case we would forward any electronic solicitation to vote proxies.

Class Action Lawsuits

We do not determine if securities held by you are the subject of a class action lawsuit or whether you are eligible to participate in class action settlements or litigation, nor do we initiate or participate in litigation to recover damages on your behalf for injuries as a result of actions, misconduct, or negligence by issuers of the securities that you own.

Financial Information

Our firm does not have any financial conditions or impairments that would prevent us from meeting our contractual commitments to you. We do not take physical custody of client funds or securities, nor do we serve as a trustee or signatory for client accounts. Additionally, we do not require or solicit the prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees six or more months in advance. Therefore, we are not required to include a financial statement with this brochure.